Autobiography of Us: A Novel - Kindle edition by Sloss ...
Aria Beth Sloss: Autobiography began as a series of questions about my mother, who was raised in Pasadena during roughly the same timeframe. Though I grew up in Boston, my family flew to California every year to spend time with my maternal grandparents, so from a very young age I knew Pasadena as the place where my mother had grown up.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF US is told in a lyrical voice of Rebecca Madden, a quiet "house-poor" girl in Pasadena, Calif. who befriends the outrageous and vivacious Alexandra Carrington in the 1950s. Rebecca tells a mysterious figure about the ups and downs of their friendship as they get shoved up the bars of the infamous "gilded cage" that trapped women for the early parts of the 20th century (and arguably, still does).

Autobiography of Us | Aria Beth Sloss | Macmillan
Aria Beth Sloss's new novel, Autobiography of Us, is a tale of just such a friendship, one started young, one that must endure betrayal and estrangement, but one that ultimately knits itself back together because it is too hard, impossible really, to let it go. Rebecca is a bit of a loner, quiet, introverted, smart, and scientifically minded.
