The spy out in the cold, the alienated Heathcliff of ballet, rough-hewn, moody and a little frightening - this is an image that's commonly paraded of the choreographer Kenneth MacMillan. His ballets stand up that image, staging barely watchable sexual urges (The Judas Tree, My Brother, My Sisters), accusing polite society as a force for evil (Mayerling, Las Hermanas), smashing the porcelain ... published in 1964 by a writer whose name nowadays is mentioned together with James Baldwin and William Faulkner, however, he is not widely known outside literary circles. I had never heard of him before, which was a shame, and reading this book was a journey which I now know I should have taken years ago.

Not every person will fit in with his companions, friends, family, job. That we should allow and recognize that this person marches to a different drummer, a different view of life, of living, of spirituality. We shouldn't therefore, change the way that person is but just let him step to the music he hears, no matter what it is or how remote it is.

Source. " Different Drummer " is a deleted song from the film Pocahontas. It has Pocahontas singing about how she wants to be someone her father can be truly proud of, rather than merely someone who amuses him, but she can't because she's so different from everyone else. Grandmother Willow counters that Pocahontas's different way of thinking is a good one that she should stay true to, and that she wishes that more people would think like Pocahontas.
