Abstract. Expansion of trade in manufactures between developed and developing countries has had a far greater effect on labour markets than earlier research suggested. In developing countries

(the South), unskilled workers have benefited most from this trade,

This paper analyzes a North-South trade model with offshoring and unemployment due to union wage setting. A reduction in the cost of offshoring decreases employment in the North except possibly if there is little offshoring initially. If the scale of Northern firms also falls, then each Northern agent's welfare declines. Unions have an

A North-South Trade Model of Offshoring and Unemployment ...

In recent decades, a new kind of North-South trade has begun to emerge driven by the abundance of cheap labour in the South. The production of many basic goods and services is being transferred from the high-wage economies of the North to the low-wage economies of the South, whilst the North is specializing in 'knowledge-intensive' activities.

those in the North. Industry levels. Wholesale and retail trade continues to be an economic driver for all regions of Great Britain. It is the leading industry for both the North and the South, accounting for more than two million jobs in each region.

The Economy and the North-South Divide - Emsi

With high employment rates across the South East and South West of England, as well as lower than average employment rates in Scotland, the North East and the North West, it would appear there is still a clear North-South divide in the UK. And it's not just employment rates that illustrate the division.

According to one hypothesis, even if the increase in North-South trade were balanced, it still might reduce manufacturing employment within the advanced economies. This would occur, according to the hypothesis, because labor-intensive industries in the advanced economies are increasingly displaced by imports, which are traded for less labor-intensive exports.
