The Black Lung Captain is still a fun, fast-paced and unique romp through a fantasy world, where deception is a positive character trait and the rule of law is considered a suggestion, but it also develops a different side to this world for the reader, bringing them emotionally into the lives of those that live in it.

The Black Lung Captain is a madcap rush from start to finish, all too easy to devour in a single read. The dialogue is sharp and witty, the writing is clever and the adventure absorbing. It may have been published first, but Retribution Falls is the mere prequel to The Black Lung Captain.

The Black Lung Captain is the second book in the Tales of the Ketty Jay quartet by Chris Wooding. A year since the events of the last book has passed and the plot began with Frey being offered a mission that will make him extremely wealthy and as usual, the mission immediately went completely wrong.

Get this from a library! The black lung captain : tales of the Ketty Jay. [Chris Wooding] -- Darian Frey is down on his luck. He can barely keep his squabbling crew fed and his rickety aircraft in the sky. Even the simplest robberies seem to go wrong. It's getting so a man can't make a ...

Excellent follow up. [Retribution Falls] was quite reminiscent of Joss Whedon's Serenity, but in [The Black Lung Captain], Wooding manages to pull away from the comparisons and the story stands on its own merit. The crew of the Ketty Jay is back and moping about after their adventures at Retribution Falls.

All the characters get that extra depth in this book. There's less frenetic grandstanding and, instead, some proper storytelling. Not that, for a moment, Mr Wooding ever takes his foot off the gas. The Black Lung Captain is a madcap rush from start to finish, all too easy to devour in a single read.
