Scott-Heron first recorded it for his 1970 album Small Talk at 125th and Lenox, on which he recited the lyrics, accompanied by congas and bongo drums. A re-recorded version, with a full band, was the B-side to Scott-Heron's first single, \"Home Is Where the Hatred Is\", from his album Pieces of a Man. It was also included on his compilation album, The Revolution Will Not Be Televised. All these releases were issued on th

The Revolution Will Not Be Funded: Beyond the Non-Profit ...

Many social justice organizations have joined this world, often blunting political goals to satisfy government and foundation mandates. But even as funding shrinks, many activists often find it difficult to imagine movement-building outside the non-profit model. The Revolution Will Not Be Funded gathers essays by radical activists, educators, and non-profit staff from around the globe who critically rethink the long-term consequences of what they call the \"non-profit industrial complex.\"

The Revolution Will Not Be Televised by Gil Scott-Heron is the Trope Namer. In this musically accompanied poem Scott-Heron predicts that the revolution will not be broadcast on TV for you to enjoy from your lazy seat, but it will indeed be a real society changing revolt that is not to be taken lightly.

I will discuss the meaning of \"The Revolution Will Not Be Televised\" from the perspective of one who was actively involved in left-wing campus politics at the time the poem/song was released. Matthew Daneman 's characterization of rejection seriously understates the beliefs, the desires and the anger that were operating at that time (understandable - he wasn't there to experience it).

The Revolution Will Not Be Televised was directed by Irish filmmakers Kim Bartley and Donnacha Ó Briain. Given direct access to Chávez, the filmmakers intended to make a fly-on-the-wall biography of the president. They spent seven months filming in Venezuela, following Chávez and his staff and interviewing ordinary citizens.

The Revolution Will Not Be Supervised - Reader's Digest

The Revolution Will Not Be Televised is one of Scott-Heron's most famous songs, and indeed the phrase has become a quotable one on issues of social disquiet, cynicism and distrust of the media. It is basically an angry socio-political poem narrated by Scott-Heron, frenetically, over a delicious bass, fatback drums and funky flute backing.
