According to author Christopher West, the central thesis of John Paul's Theology of the Body is that "the body, and it alone, is capable of making visible what is invisible: the spiritual and the divine. It was created to transfer into the visible reality of the world, the mystery hidden since time immemorial in God, and thus to be a sign of it."

Theology of the Body - Wikipedia

The "theology of the body" refers to the study of who God is and who we are by reflecting on what God has revealed about the human body, especially in the context of Christian marriage. This may sound surprising since the study of God is supposed to be something spiritual, not material like a body.

In his Theology of the Body John Paul II digs deep into the meaning of being a human person based on Scripture. As a person with a body and soul, made in the image and likeness of God, we find the meaning of life through finding out what it means to image God and what our bodies have to do with it. We not only image God through the gift of free-will, but
